

Little Red Riding Hood

Once upon a time, there was a sweet little girl called
Little Red Riding Hood.
She always wore a red cloak made by her grandma.

One sunny morning, her mother said,
"Grandma is feeling sick.
Please take this basket to her."

Little Red Riding Hood set off through the forest,
Little Red Riding Hood hummed a happy tune with her basket full of goodies.

Suddenly, a big gray wolf appeared from behind the trees.

"Where are you going, little girl?"
The wolf asked with a sly smile.

“To Grandma’s house. She is sick.”
she answered.

The wolf grinned and ran off in a flash.

The wolf reached Grandma's house first and knocked on the door.
"Who's there?" asked Grandma.
"It's me, Little Red Riding Hood!"

The wolf jumped in and quickly hid Grandma in the closet.

Then he put on her nightcap and got into her bed.

When Little Red Riding Hood arrived, she said,
"Grandma, what big ears you have!"
"All the better to hear you with!" said the wolf.

"Grandma, what big teeth you have!"

"All the better to eat you with!" growled the wolf.

Just then, a woodcutter burst in and saved them!

Grandma came out safe and sound.
They all laughed and shared the treats from the basket.
And the wolf?
He ran far, far away — never to be seen again!

Story and illustrations are created by LeeHyunJung

You May:

Adapt: You can change, remix, and use the material for any purpose, even commercially.
Licensors cannot revoke freedoms if they follow the license terms.

Terms:

Attribution: Give credit to the creator, include a link to the license, and mention if any changes were made.
Avoid implying the licensor's endorsement.
No additional restrictions: Do not add legal terms or tech measures that limit others' rights.

Notices:

You do not have to follow the license for public domain elements or permitted uses.

The license does not have warranties and might not cover all permissions needed.
Other rights like publicity or privacy could limit how you use the material.